Roger CPA Review Course (Rank: #1)

OVERALL RATING: $\star \star \star \star \star$

Entertaining Lectures: Roger Philip teaches each lecture with a lot (and I mean a lot) of energy and enthusiasm. His unique teaching style makes the material much more interesting and helps students stay motivated. He is passionate about helping students pass the CPA exam and is very knowledgeable about the material.

Mnemonics and Memorization Tactics: Roger uses mnemonics and other memorization tools throughout his lectures to provide an easier way for students to remember many tedious details that often appear on the exam.

Financing Options: Roger CPA Review now offers financing plans for students on a budget. This is a fantastic opportunity because anyone who can afford to pay $149 a month now has access to the best CPA exam review course on the market!

Unlimited Access: Roger now offers CPA candidates UNLIMITED access to their online study materials so you'll never have to worry about having them expire. They also offer free course updates to ensure you'll always be studying with the most up to date content when any changes are made to the exam.

SmartPath Technology: This new feature provides you with recommendations on where and how to focus your efforts by comparing your progress and performance to those that have passed the CPA Exam.

If you are struggling with the dry and boring content of accounting topics, you need Roger Philipp as your CPA test prep instructor. His energetic "Roger Method" has kept students motivated to stay focused for more than 25 years.

Roger CPA Review is known for its engaging video and audio lectures, but this course also has material that clearly breaks down difficult CPA exam topics into simplified concepts. The course technology is cutting-edge compared to the other dated courses out there, so if you want a great video lecture course supported by an awesome software, Roger is the one for you.

FAQs About Roger CPA Review:

Q: How do I watch the course on my mobile devices?

A: If you get the course, you'll have access to the lectures on your cellular phone, tablet, or mobile device. Many times, the videos are too large for 3G or 4G, so you'll need to be connected to a wireless network.

Q: What happens if I have a question about my course -either the concepts or homework?

A: Roger has a Homework Help Center to answer questions regarding the CPA exam. Moderators are available to help, as they can provide assistance on conceptual issues or topical questions. This service is meant to be a supplemental support to the content that's covered in the lectures.

The Bottom Line: If you have difficulty staying focused with boring accounting topics, you will love the easy-to-read and engaging style of Roger CPA Review.

Wiley CPAexcel Review Course (Rank: #2)

Wiley CPAexcel[®]

OVERALL RATING: $\star \star \star \star \star$

Bite-Sized Topics: Each section is broken down into small 30-45 minute sections, which makes the CPA exam seem much less overwhelming. This is also great for anyone who has a full-time job or children and doesn't have large chunks of time to study.

TONS of Multiple Choice Questions: Wiley's Platinum course includes more than 12,000 multiple choice questions from previous CPA exams, which is more than any other course on the market. This allows you to get the repetition you need without worrying about seeing the same questions repeated over and over again.

Unlimited Use: Once you buy their course, it NEVER expires. This includes unlimited use of practice tests, videos, quizzes, and all other course materials. Wiley also provides free online course updates, so you'll never have to worry about studying with outdated materials.

Best For Independent Self Studiers: Wiley CPAexcel does not offer live classes and their student support is limited to a message board on which it can take up to 24 hours to get a response. If you learn best from human interaction or need one-on-one help, then this course might not be the best fit.

Wiley is a perfect course for you if you have a busy schedule with work or family obligations. I used Wiley to pass my CPA exam while also working 50 hours a week. I would not have been able to do so without the small sized lectures that made fitting in small study sessions easy these also helped to increase my retention.

If you identify as a self studier, this is the course for you! Some may want more human interaction, but if you prefer to study on your own Wiley is the way to go.

Most Asked Questions About Wiley CPAexcel Review:

Q: When will the 2017 CPA Exam content be available?

A: The 2017 CPA Exam began testing in April 2017, so Wiley released updated course content in early 2017.

Q: When will the 2017 CPA Exam content be available?

A: The 2017 CPA Exam began testing in April 2017, so Wiley released updated course content in early 2017. The new exam should be reflected in the content, so the user shouldn't be concerned about taking the test because of fears of new topics that aren't included in the course.

The Bottom Line: Wiley is the course for you if you need small sized lessons to squeeze into your busy schedule.

Surgent CPA Review Course (Rank: #3)

OVERALL RATING: $\star \star \star \star \star$

Experienced Instructors: Surgent CPA Review instructors Liz Kolar, CPA (25 year CPA exam prep instructor) and Jack Surgent, CPA (leading CPE course provider with 20+ years of experience) created Surgent CPA Review with the vision of making the study process more efficient than other established CPA exam review courses. They offer insightful strategies and study tips in their video lectures that they have accumulated through many years of teaching. Their videos are concise and to the point which makes it easier to absorb and retain the information learned.

Money Back Guarantee: Sign up for a 5-day free trial of their course to get familiar with it before making any buying decisions. They also offer a Money Back Guarantee, so if you complete their course and end up failing you eligible for a full refund. This shows just how confident they are in their product and that they are willing to put their money where their mouth is.

Intuitive Dashboard: The course is extremely easy to navigate and you'll be cruising in and out of lessons with ease thanks to the revamped dashboard design that Surgent created. This is something with which other courses struggle, so it's great to see one course put a lot of money and effort into making the prep program easy to use and intuitive.

Surgent is the only non-linear CPA test prep course on the market. This means instead of studying through a structured format, like other companies, Surgent's course will adapt to your unique level of knowledge. With this efficient way to study, you will be able to cut down about 50 hours of study time.

Since Surgent's software utilizes true adaptive study algorithms throughout your entire study process, you will eliminate unnecessary study time. And you don't have to worry about getting updated material that prepares you for the new 2018 CPA exam! Surgent incorporates new adjustments whenever the AICPA introduces a change or based on student feedback, ensuring you have the most up-to-date course that is easy to use, for no extra cost.

(note: Most other courses, such as Becker, will charge you for these updates that happen annually. So with other courses, you will have 18 months of access, but will have to pay for the new version of the course after 12 months if you want the most current material.)

Popular Questions About Surgent CPA Review:

Q: Is Surgent compatible with smartphones and tablets?

A: Yes, all of Surgent's course features are compatible with most smartphones and tablets. The only devices that don't support Surgent's software are Kindle Fire, Nook Tablets, and E-Readers.

Q: What is adaptive learning?

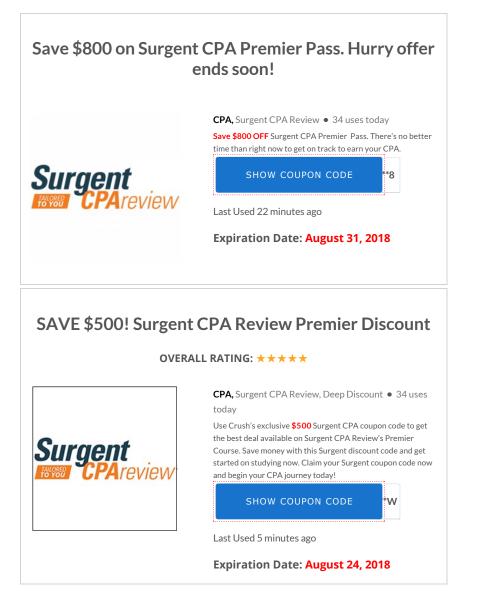

A: Adaptive learning is a learning technology that Surgent incorporated into their software so it can quickly reveal your areas of need and automatically create a customized study plan that focuses on where you need the most help. The goal is to reduce study time and increase efficiency.

The Bottom Line: Surgent and its impressive adaptive software will help you pass the CPA exam as quickly as possible.

Yaeger CPA Review Course (Rank: #4)

OVERALL RATING: $\star \star \star \star \star$

Best Customer Support: Yaeger's Live Instructor Hotline provides responsive personal support that is superior to any other review course. This allows students to directly contact the instructors for help with any questions that arise while studying. Yaeger is famous for his promise, "Whether by phone or email—you can contact me and the other instructors personally almost anytime."

Easy To Follow Lectures: The lectures include step by step instructions to ensure that students are clear about the subject material. Instructors work hundreds of multiple choice questions with you and help you navigate through those tricky problems which give you the repetition needed to be successful.

Old School Style of Teaching: Students with shorter attention spans may get bored by the traditional lecture videos. They are structured very much like most accounting classes you probably had in college and move a little slower than an independent self-study type of person might prefer.

Phil Yaeger has been teaching CPA candidates since 1977. His focus back then was customer service, and that tradition continues to this day. So if you are nervous about starting this solo CPA prep process and want a course that will have all sorts of student support, Yaeger would be a solid fit for your learning style.

When Yaeger updated its course for the new 2017 CPA exam, it added several new features to make the course more up to date in terms of technology. The content is also quite comprehensive and closely tied to the CPA blueprints, making this course ideal for those who have been out of college for a while and want more information and easy access to instructor support.

Most Asked Questions About Yaeger CPA Review:

Q: Does Yaeger CPA Review work on mobile devices?

A: With Yaeger, you can access the materials via a browser that adapts well to mobile devices. The student portal can be easily entered via any mobile phone or tablet. The flashcards can be accessed via mobile devices, so you can take studying on the go!What's the difference between the Traditional and Premium courses"

Q: Does Yaeger offer personal support for its course?

A: Yaeger offers a unique combination of support services: there's an instructor hotline and phone and email support. The instructors who field questions have years of experience in the industry.

The Bottom Line: Yaeger is a good fit for you if you want a comprehensive course that gives you more than enough information to pass the CPA Exam.

Gleim CPA Review Course (Rank: #5)

OVERALL RATING: $\star \star \star \star \star$

Extensive Practice Tests: Gleim utilizes a variety of testing tools such as True/False quizzes, MCQ tests, Final Exam Reviews and Task Based Simulations to give you plenty of practice for the real deal. Their full review course includes over 9,200 multiple choice questions, which is significantly more than any other CPA prep course.

Audio Review: Gleim's complete course includes an audio CPA review for each section of the CPA exam. These provide an excellent way to learn the material during non-traditional study times like driving to work, and can be easily downloaded to your smart phone, iPod or mp3 player.

Very Detailed Content: The books are detailed and use a significant amount of technical jargon. Although many students prefer a highly comprehensive course, others may feel overwhelmed by the information overload.

Gleim is another comprehensive course that prides itself on covering all possible subjects that may be encountered on the CPA exam—this is another great option for those who have been out of school for awhile.

Gleim's course comes with a variety of resources like audio lessons, practice exams, a Simulation Wizard, and access to a personal counselor for all 4 sections of the CPA Exam. The unlimited access and free course content updates make this option pretty great too!

FAQs About Gleim CPA Review:

Q: Is there a guarantee for this course?

A: With Gleim, you get an Access Until You Pass guarantee. This means that you'll have full access to the entire course, without needing to buy an extension, until you pass the CPA exam.

Q: What's the difference between the Traditional and Premium courses?

A: The Gleim Traditional CPA Review offers less student support and doesn't come with the pass guarantee. The Premium review comes complete with the Gleim Instruct Video Series and a more built out support infrastructure.

The Bottom Line: If you haven't been in a classroom for a number of years and want a personal counselor to help you throughout your studies, Gleim is the course for you.

Fast Forward Academy CPA Review (Rank: #6)

Personalized Learning System: Fast Forward is not a one size fits all type of course, as it actually caters to each student's specific learning needs. As you progress through the course, data from your practice exams is collected and used to create personalized tests that target your weak areas.

No Mobile App: Although Fast Forward Academy's learning platform can be accessed from most mobile devices, including iPads, iPhones, and most Android phones, there is no dedicated app to make studying on your phone or tablet more streamlined and convenient.

Other courses have awesome mobile apps that makes quick study sessions easy and simple. It helps to have an app that you can use to quickly fit in a topic or two on-the-go.

Fast Forward Academy is relatively new to the CPA Review arena and the course is still proving itself. The feedback is mixed, but it's certainly a fine course for passing the CPA exam.

If you are on a tight budget, Fast Forward Academy is one of the least expensive courses on the market and will give you what you need to pass the CPA Exam.

The Bottom Line: Fast Forward Academy CPA Review has some of the best technology out there, I would recommend this course for students who prefer to self-study and have a smaller budget.

Becker CPA Review Program (Rank: #7)

OVERALL RATING: $\star \star \star \star \star$

Regularly Updated & Large Study Bank: Becker CPA Review has one of the largest databases of exam questions and provides over 7,200 multiple choice questions and almost 400 task-based simulations for practice. The Study Bank ensures that you won't see the same recycled questions over and over again.

Inconsistent Live Classes: Becker offers live classes that have been reported to be less than helpful by many students. There is a benefit of having a live classroom setting to gain a deeper understanding of CPA knowledge, but the viability of the course is dependent on the quality of the instructor.

Cost: The cost of Becker CPA Review can be prohibitive. There are financing options for some customers who qualify and a few discount codes available. Still, it is the most expensive course on this list and far more pricey than any of its competitors.

No Audio Courses: The Becker CPA Review restricts you to one type of learning style and does not offer audio courses. Audio courses can give you more flexibility in your study plan and let you quickly study during down time like commuting, doing laundry, or even at the gym. Check out some other courses that offer audio courses to get the most out of limited study time.

Becker is one of the most known companies for CPA candidates since it is sponsored by most accounting firms (including the Big 4) and universities. While this is great for name recognition, it's a problem because Becker has no incentive to change or update its software and content since it is guaranteed to get customers from accounting firms and newly graduated accounting majors.

With this secure customer base, Becker has no problem being the most expensive course out there. This option is two to three times more expensive than other courses out there, but its a trusted name in the industryO. So if you have been told by a boss, professor, or fellow CPA that Becker is "the only way to go," I strongly suggest you check out your other affordable options before paying the price for Becker.

The Bottom Line: You should use Becker only if someone else is going to pay for it, otherwise check out other review courses.

Other CPA Exam Prep Courses

These CPA review courses didn't make my Top 7 List in 2018, but I still wanted to give you a thorough overview of their pros and cons. Click on each one to learn more:

Ninja CPA Review Course – Not comprehensive enough to use as a primary study source, ok as supplementary study material on weaker sections.

ExamMatrix CPA Study Materials – Lacks explanation videos, more of a study bank than a full review course.

Lambers CPA Review Courses – Has a comprehensive Audio Review Course, that's pretty much it, though.

MDS CPA Study Materials - Has recently overhauled entire course to get a much-needed upgrade in technology, overall it looks very promising.

CPA Course Video Lecture Comparison

CPA video lectures are great for people who miss the classroom setting and prefer to learn by watching a teacher go over the important accounting concepts. Video lectures are one of the most important parts of any CPA review course, as many students prefer this style of learning. Roger CPA Review has some of the best video materials in the industry with his engaging talks, while Surgent CPA Review has the most knowledgeable instructors.

Video Lecture Hours
110
350 Short Videos

Yaeger CPA Review	104
Gleim CPA Review	100
Fast Forward Academy	470 Short Videos
Becker	100

Bottom Line: Roger CPA Review will likely occupy this spot until the namesake retires he's the most engaging instructor in the industry.

Most Multiple Choice Questions – CPA Review Course Comparison

Multiple choice questions are the bread and butter of the best CPA review books, as these mirror the exam content and are an amazing way to practice for the test. The number of MCQs isn't always the most important metric for these questions, as some are harder and more like the actual exam than others. Wiley has a ton of great questions, but Surgent has very targeted multiple choice questions that will help you prepare for the test.

CPA Review Course	Multiple Choice Questions
Wiley CPAexcel	12,000
Gleim CPA Review	9,200
Becker	7,200
Surgent CPA Review	6,840
Roger CPA Review	5,800
Fast Forward Academy	5,000
Yaeger CPA Review	5,000

Bottom Line: Wiley CPAexcel has more multiple choice questions than any course, so

Comparison of CPA Course Task-Based Simulations

Task-based simulations are increasingly important because of the 2017 CPA exam structure. Because of this new test, CPA review courses now place more emphasis on these questions, ensuring you can pass after practicing the TBS section. Surgent and Wiley are the top two courses that have included up to date TBS materials and have optimized these sections for the new CPA exam blueprints.

CPA Review Course	Number of Task-Based Simulations
Gleim CPA Review	1,000
Wiley CPAexcel	600
Roger CPA Review	400
Becker	400
Surgent CPA Review	390
Fast Forward Academy	230
Yaeger CPA Review	164

Bottom Line: While Surgent has extremely up-to-date materials, Gleim CPA Review has the most task based simulations with which to practice.

CPA Course Discount Prices & Financing Compared

Why pass full price for a CPA review course? There are plenty of great CPA discount codes that are available to students and candidates. Take hundreds of dollars off of the Surgent CPA Review or Wiley CPAexcel with our great CPA promo codes. If you can't put a bunch of money down upfront, check out the financing options from Surgent and Roger CPA Review.

CPA Review Course	Price with Discount	Financing Available?
Surgent CPA Review	$1,799	Yes, 0%
Wiley CPAexcel	$1,950	No

CPA Exam Frequently Asked Questions

Why should I become a CPA?

The benefits of being a CPA are both tangible and intangible. With that designation next to your name, you get a better career trajectory, a higher salary, respect from similarly accredited peers, and the potential to secure corner office positions. Over the course of their careers, CPAs make $1 million more than their non-certified counterparts. The C-Suite is more likely to be made up of people who are CPAs than those who lack the title—executive search firm Spencer Stuart noted roughly 45 percent of CFOs have a CPA.

What are the CPA exam requirements by state?

The requirements to sit for the CPA exam aren't especially varied from state to state, but there are certainly some outliers. Understanding these CPA exam requirements is necessary, however, as the first step to becoming a CPA is being able to sit for the exam. For the most part, you're going to need 150 credit hours of accounting education, along with some work experience. There's definitely more to the requirements than just 150 credit hours, but you're going to have that as a basic educational foundation to sit for the exam.

How do I apply for the CPA exam?

Applying for the CPA exam is a complicated process, especially given the date restrictions and many requirements. Understanding how to apply will help with scheduling and time management, so make sure you cover all of the bases. The basic application process involves school transcripts, submitting the fee and application, receiving the ATT from your state board, getting your NTS from NASBA, going to the Prometric website to schedule the exam dates, and then finally studying and taking the test. The CPA exam application process is very specific and can be confusing, so make sure you follow every detail exactly to a T.

How do people stay motivated after failing a CPA exam section?

Finding the motivation to carry on with studying after a failed test is heartbreaking for many people. However, if you can make the proverbial light at the end of the tunnel a tangible goal or event, it will ease the process of starting over. Many people fail at least one section, so it's certainly possible to keep studying if you know WHY you're taking the test. Failing a section also doesn't mean you're not cut out to become a CPA—many people who occupy corner offices of Fortune 500 companies have failed one section of their exams. The important thing with regard to failing is to make sure you don't make the same mistake twice.

How do I recognize my "learning style"?

Recognizing your learning style is the key to cutting hours and hours off of your studying time. Once you know what works with regard to specific types of prep tools—videos, audio content, or practicing by doing via test banks or books—the whole process becomes easier and each minute of studying becomes more valuable. If you're wondering what your learning style is, I suggest you check out the above post and determine exactly how you process and consume information. Not knowing how you learn best before you invest in a CPA review course is basically burning money!

What are the different testing windows for the CPA exam?

The test is broken down into the quarterly fiscal schedule on which all businesses rely. So, for the first quarter, you get to take the test within the first two months and an additional ten days into the second month. Once this testing window is over, the schedule simply repeats that pattern. Basically, there's a 20-ish day period per quarter in which you cannot take the test. If you're able to plan your studying and schedule your exams correctly, you'll be able to knock out the CPA in roughly a year!

How do I create a study schedule?

Creating a CPA exam study schedule is reliant on you making an honest assessment of how many hours you can devote per week. If you're working full-time, you're going to want to study a certain amount per day, with somewhat longer sessions on the weekend. If you're not working, you can devote larger chunks of time per day—the key is to keep a consistent level of studying, as you don't want to do too much on one day and none on another. Knowing how to study for the CPA exam will be the difference between passing and failing each individual section.

Which section of the CPA exam should I take first?

Your first CPA exam section should be the one that you feel most confident about passing. Check out the video below to find out why!

Hi Bryce, I have been a Sr Accountant for few years. Last year graduated with an MBA In Finance and am excited to keep learning. I have not been the self-learner type that loves to sit and read huge-long books (makes me sleepy). Now, if it's a practical case, I love to dig into details to figure out everything. I need a review course that makes it engaging and interesting to make me stay focus, I guess my best learning method is more audio-visualpractical way than just reading and trying to memorize. Can you advise which review could fit me best?

Bryce Welker, CPA Posted at 19 June, 2018 08:02 AM REPLY

Hi Paulina, from what you've told me I would definitely suggest Roger CPA Review. It's the best course on the market for audio/visual learners and has the most engaging video lectures by a long shot. Good luck in your studies! Cheers, Bryce

Dear Bryce, Good Evening. I have reviewed the options of all the courses above and would like to ask you for your recommendation. I am leaning towards Surgent but would like to know your view as well. I will be hitting the books after nearly 19 years. I am working full time and would like to take a course that will assist me with proper time management. I want a course which is comprehensive, easy to follow, ample questions(all types) and provides a clear conceptual understanding for the materials in all four parts. Kindly advise. Thanks and Regards, Kamal Taiyeb

Hi Kamal, Surgent is a great option for sure. Since you've been out of school for a long time I'd suggest signing up for a free trial of both Surgent and Wiley CPAexcel and seeing which one you like better. Cheers, Bryce

Hi Bryce, thanks for your thorough review! I'd like your advice what to pick. I'm looking to start from the multiple choice questions and review anything that I get wrong. But when I do get something wrong I want in-depth as possible on that topic, videos test etc. I'm torn in-between Rogers (great indepth video), Wiley and Surgent Thank you so much

Hi David, from what you've told me I think Surgent would be a great fit for you. Their adaptive learning technology starts you on the practice questions just like you are planning too and then you are able to drill down into specific topics in detail after you find out your weak areas. Would be worth signing up for a free trial for Wiley and Roger CPA Review as well so you can compare all 3 courses to make sure it's a good fit before you buy anything. Cheers, Bryce

Becker online course does not always work or is not accessible, you basically cannot view or use the review material - it sucks when you have your exam coming up and you cannot access your online review material that is supposed to be accessible 24/7!

[* Shield plugin marked this comment as "O". Reason: Human SPAM filter found "oy" in "comment_content" *] I am thinking of purchasing Surgent CPA Review for $1,499 and taking the exam in January 2019. I want to spend a full year studying and preparing for the CPA exam. I believe Surgent is much better and more enjoyable than Becker (also half the price of Becker). I hope to pass all 4 sections of the CPA exam by March 2019. I will be 35 then. I also have the Becker Flashcards which I purchased in mid 2014 for about $190. These actually come FREE with Surgent. Hi Bryce, thanks for your thorough review! I'd like your advice what to pick. Let me explain myself. I passed three parts of CPA in my first try back in 2000 but missed Audit. Right after, I started working in the CPA firm. I kept pushing the remaining part to next year and my credits were expired. I'm still working in the same firm. It's a small firm and now I get to the position that I manage the entire firm and work with most of our clients. Many of them assume I'm a CPA, LOL. Anyhow, I want to get it done so here I am. I used Becker back in 2000. I was going to use Becker again but thought I should check around. As you can imagine, I don't have a lot of time and have knowledge from 14 years of experience in real world. I'm toward to Surgent or Wiley. Any advice would be greatly appreciated! Thank you!

Hi JP, Good to hear you've decided to attack the CPA exam again! It really depends on your learning style and what study materials you learn best from (watching videos/reading textbooks/doing lots of practice questions/etc). If I were you I would sign up for a free-trial from Surgent, Wiley, and Roger CPA Review and you will find out pretty quickly which one best fits your style of learning. Good luck in your studies! Which course is recommended for an accountant that has not been in school in several years (ten). I took the BEC section of Becker in 2011 and I passed on my first try. However, I did not take any additional sections of the exam at that time. I would prefer a program that is not as costly as Becker if possible.

Hi Kay, Both Surgent and Wiley CPAexcel are ideal for students who have been out of school for a while. Their courses are both comprehensive while at the same time help you focus in on your weaker areas so you don't spend time studying topics you already know. Good luck in your studies! Bryce

Great to see Surgent CPA Exam Review Course ranked #1. Great Adaptive learning and pass rates!

Hi Bryce, looks like you are big on Wiley (based on comments) but you have Surgent ranked #1 in your list. What which one do you recommend for someone who is a visual learner? Also, based on their website Surgent seems like a great program. what downfalls would you say it has?

BWelk

Surgent is my number one because it is great for all types of learners, including visual. The best part about Surgent is that the bulk of your studying is done while you are practicing with multiple choice questions, which has proven to be the best way to study for the CPA Exam. When you get a question wrong, you will be provided with the correct answer and detailed explanation. Here, you can click relevant terms and reference links that take you to the digital textbookâ€[™]s section covering the topic of the question. You can even watch one of the hundreds of short video lectures that teach you about topics you may be struggling with. I loved this because I knew I was studying what I needed to know and not wasting time on topics I already understood.

Hi, I have done from India in 2005. Since then i have never worked due to family responsibility and visa issue. Which cpa review course would you recommend for the people like me with a huge gap in career. i can devote 6 hrs daily but i have a very short attention span. I've viewed the demos of Roger and Wiley. Roger's demo was available for very short period only for 2 days but I liked it. is Roger would be enough for me? I would also like to try the Becker's demo, but it isn't availbale. I am really confused. What do you suggest? Which review course would best fit for me?Thanks Reshvi, If you have a short attention span and you enjoyed Roger's lectures, then I would definitely go with Roger! His lectures are the best you'll find. They are incredibly engaging and Roger, the instructor, does a great job at making CPA topics interesting. Good luck!

Hello, I'm a CPA candidate. I'm currently using Gleim preparation and so far my scores have improves: (not passed an exam FAR). I used Roger and found the instructor very entertaining. However, customer service and problem solving help desk support was not helpful. I failed BEC twice and REG with Roger. Do you have a suggestion on a cpa prep course that could help me understand and solve question that I struggle understanding concepts. So far Gleim and Roger have not meet those expectations despite their commitment to assisting. PS: Becker is running a 50% of sale for CPA candidates in the DC area until May 15th. What are your thoughts on Becker. thank you for the response.

BWelk

I do not like Becker because it is sponsored by most accounting firms and universities, so the course has no incentive to change and update since it is guaranteed to get customers from companies like the big 4 and most accounting majors. The material is dry and many candidates struggle to study with Becker. I would check out Wiley or maybe look into adding a cram course to your studies. A cram course could help you pin point what areas are lowering your score. Best of luck!

Hi. I'm a CPA candidate and I'm struggling with which prep software to go with. Presently, I work as a senior accountant. I'm single, so evenings and weekends aren't a problem to dedicate. My issue would be keeping my attention. I tried Becker about a decade ago. I passed 2 sections but couldn't continue for other reasons. However, I didn't pass until the second time for each. I don't want to do in person classes. I feel I'm better with self-study. What do you suggest? Thank you

Sounds like you would be a great fit with Wiley! The bite-sized lessons make it a very easy course to pick up quick study sessions, with any type of schedule. I found this to be the most engaging course and it allows you to pace your study plan to your needs and time restrictions. This course is made for self-studiers that want to learn on their terms. You can take a look at my full review here -

Hi I am a CPA candidate and have been trying to get motivated to study and get back in the grove but my attention span is so small. I have kids and a husband and a Full time Accounting job but I need to become a CPA for my own personal goals and just to have that to climb the ladder professionally. I really was willing to finance becker thinking that sitting back in a classroom might help. I do need structure and guidance someone keeping me on track. Its very hard with a full family and a job. What would you recommend for me with my time but also with my bad attention span. I've bought books and lectures over the years and haven't really gotten any further. I'd like to be able to play the lectures on my head set since i also try to fit in exercise during my lunch breaks. Please help me. I do not want to waste anymore time or money but i do need to pass the exam. Thank you.

Nicole, I would check out Wiley! The bite-sized lessons make it a very easy course to pick up quick study sessions, even with a busy work schedule and kids. I found this to be the most engaging course and it allows you to pace your study plan to your needs and time restrictions, which seems important for your situation. You can take a look at my full review here - As for your attention span, I agree that you need audio courses that can make it easy for you to listen to lectures on the go. Roger's audio lessons are my favorite and I would listen to them when I worked out. Very engaging instructor, which is crucial when learning topics in accounting. Best of luck!

Hi - I have been using Wiley and it seems to be good, but my issue here is I don't remember what I have studied a month ago. So I decided to get either SUPERFASTCPA notes or NINJA notes. Which notes do you recommend me to use? Have you heard of SUPERFASTCPA? What else do you recommend me to do? Thank you

Posted at 19 April, 2017 22:04 PM REPLY

Youssef, I have not used SUPERFASTCPA, but after checking out its website, it seems like a solid CPA resource with a comforting pass guarantee. There appears to be a free demo too, which is always helpful to check out when your struggling to make a decision. I had some issues with Ninja, but it is an okay supplement to the full course you're already using. You can read my full review on Ninja here - Best of luck!

Hi - I've seen a lot of not so great reviews on many sites regarding Becker's live courses, but I was wondering if there are any reviews regarding their self study program? I'm debating between Becker and Wiley's self study programs, trying to decide which is more current in comparison to the CPA exam and which will better prepare me. I have a BA in Accounting and Business Administration, but it's been 7 years since I graduated college. Any advise would be greatly appreciated!

BWelk

Wiley is definitely the better course in terms of being up to date with the new CPA exam. Becker will charge you for updates, while Wiley updates all materials for free. Wiley is also my number one ranked course and ideal for self-studiers.

Hi Bryce, I finished my BA in Accounting in 2011. Since then, I have been working as an AP/AR. Now, our company going out of business and I don't have work. I decided to take my CPA. I have 5 hour per day to study. Please recommend me which Exam prep is best fit for me. Thank you!

BWelk

Do you like to learn visually? If so, I would recommend Roger since his video lectures are the best you'll find. They are incredibly engaging and Roger, the instructor, does a great job at making CPA topics interesting. Roger's audio lessons are also great if you want to take your studies on the go, but it sounds like you will have a lot of time to devote. Do you like to self-study? If so, I would go with Wiley since they are my number one ranked course and have easy to absorb small sized lectures. Wiley does a great job at giving you everything you need and no other distractions. Check out their free trials (and my other courses on my tops 7 chart) and see which one fits your learning style the best! Good luck, you're going to crush it!

Hi! I've been planning to start studying when tax season is over and have been looking at this page every month or so. I haven't done the trials or demos yet which I'm hoping will point me in the right direction but the one thing I'm nervous about is the change to the CPA test this year. Have all of these review courses adapted to the change? I'm leaning more towards Wiley or Rogers but I have heard that the change is adding more simulations to the test and it doesn't look like Rogers has as many task-based simulations than other review courses. I've been asking around like crazy but would love some feedback from you! Thank you so much for creating a page like this - it has been SO helpful.

Hi Bryce, I am currently using Becker and was able to pass 3 sections on the first try. However, I have failed Reg 3 times (twice with a score of 74). I have never taken a class on taxation of entities, and have no experience in this area. I feel like Becker requires that you have some basic knowledge, and therefore I feel a little lost with the material. If I don't pass the next time around, I will start losing credit for my previous exams. Which course is most likely to give me a better understanding in this area and get me a passing score the next time around? Also, which would be best considering the 2017 exam changes taking effect in April? Thanks!

Hi Bryce, I currently work 50+ hours a week and started sitting for the exam last year. I have failed REG twice and am getting very frustrated. I am currently using Becker and am thinking about getting a supplemental course. Which one do you think is the best?
